Drying preparations simply developed by catarrh; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants, fumes, smokes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and will cure catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. A trial size will be mailed for 10 cents. All druggists sell the 50c size. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N. Y. The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation. With Ely's Cream Balm you are armed against Nasal Catarrh and Hay Fever.

HEARTS THAT MISUNDERSTOOD.

"It is so cold," she said and sighed. "His heart is shut within. The skill mechanic of his old Crenoma violin." They met and passed, and as she went she dropped upon the stairs. A rose that opened in the soft brown sunshine of her hair.

The maid forgot her dream of love. Another man to wed; Years after came a dawn that found The white haired minstrel dead. With violin upon his breast His soul had taken wings. And, lo, a rose, a withered rose, Was tangled in the strings.

Through a Telescope.

By M. QUAD.

Copyright, 1901, by C. B. Lewis.

There arrived one day at the Swiss hotel where I was putting up in the month of August a man and his wife named Dubar. They were French, but both spoke English fairly well. While they were husband and wife, he was 30 years old and she not over 22. The disparity between their ages was remarked by the gossip, and it was noted that it had been a marriage for money on the girl's part. They had been married for a year, as some one ascertained, and the little tenderness of the honeymoon were no longer to be looked for, but before they had been with us three days I made up my mind that the young wife both feared and hated her husband. I saw it in her looks and actions when she was off her guard. On his part he treated her courteously and rather paternally in public, but accident made me a listener one day to a speech of his that told me he had a great bitterness in his heart against her.

I paid little heed to the gossip around me, nor did I take any interest in the family quarrel. It was on the fifth day after the couple arrived that I wandered away by myself along the mountain stream and by and by sat down beside a boulder to smoke and gaze at a waterfall on the far side of the creek. I had been there a quarter of an hour when I heard footsteps, and, peering out, I saw Dubar approaching. I noticed he was pale faced and his lips were compressed, and he was muttering to himself in French as he sat down on the other side of the stone. We were hidden from each other.

turned into the mountain path I was lost, and Dubar and his wife were before me. He laughed and joked, and she was merry and full of song. I had been bothered with a lame foot and was obliged to proceed slowly, and several times they laughingly called to me. We had gone about a mile when they drew ahead out of sight, and, knowing the locality well, I set out to take a short cut and save distance. This took me to the east side of a ravine, while the main party were following the west side. I got along fairly well until I was about to strike the path they were following. Owing to a bend of the ravine, the path was half a mile away at one point and then came turning back on itself until it was only a few rods from where I sat down to rest and wait.

I knew that most of the picnickers had passed, but was sure I could head off the Dubars, as I caught sight of them at intervals, and they were still lagging far behind. Opposite the spot where I rested the west path ran over a cliff, making the highest point along the ravine. From the top of that cliff to the bed of the ravine was fully 75 feet. Though my eyesight was good, I had brought along my binoculars, and as I rested I focused them on the distant cliff to make out the Dubars as they passed. In three or four minutes they arrived. They were walking hand in hand and still acting like lovers. I could see the smiles on their faces as they halted for breath. I could and did see more than that. As they stood peering down into the ravine I saw such a look of malignant triumph on the man's face that it made me gasp for breath. The look warned me of what was coming. She stood a little before him, pointing at a flower growing on the very brink of the cliff and speaking of it, and I saw him glance up and down the path to see if it was clear. Then I cried out, but my voice was weak and broken and did not carry a quarter of the distance. I sprang up to wave my hat and let the man know I was watching, but it was a useless move, and I groaned in despair as I realized it. I had the glass full on him when he stepped behind her and put out his hands and gave her a sudden push. She had no chance at all. It was only three or four feet to the brink, and the push sent her over as she screamed out. Dubar stood for a moment and then turned and ran for the hotel and gave the alarm. Word was sent to the picnickers, and they returned, and before noon we had the body at the inn. It was a terrible fall, and death had followed it. It was an "accident," of course, with a benevolent husband to give all the particulars, and every one sorrowed with him until his dead was shipped away and he had departed with his tears. I was the only one who knew how the tragedy had occurred, and I said nothing. She was dead, and his life had been wrecked, and why should I meddle?

How He Did It.

At a dinner party the conversation, which had become informal and general, turned on the subject of tricks with cards. One of the men produced a pack and proposed to show the company a most remarkable performance. He asked the hostess to have a soup tureen brought, and it was done. Then he asked the lady at his right to draw a card from the pack and make a mental note of it. She did so and returned the card at random to the deck. The performer next asked three or four of the male guests to shuffle the cards in turn and requested the last of them to place the pack in the soup tureen and put the cover on. Turning to the lady who had drawn the card, he asked her in what order she would have it appear from the top of the pack, and she said she would like to have it in the sequence of spades. One of the gentlemen then took the pack from the soup tureen and counted the cards from the top, face down.

"What was your card?" the performer asked the lady, and she replied that it was the ace of spades. The seventeenth card was turned over and proved to be the ace of spades.

A few days later a cabinet officer, who was one of the guests, met the performer and asked for an explanation of that interesting card trick.

"Oh, that was an easy one," he replied. "You see, that was a pack of my own, and there were 52 aces of spades in it."—Exchange.

By His Works.

The members of the class in rhetoric were reciting to Professor Dash of the Blank university one day when the question of the "split infinitive" came up, and the professor took occasion to condemn in strong terms the practice of using it.

"But, professor," argued one of the pupils, "a distinguished authority [naming him] has just published an article in one of the magazines in which he defends the 'split infinitive.'"

"I know it," replied the professor, "with a smile, 'and in the same article he defends nearly every other pet abomination of the purists, but he doesn't use one of them. He is the most glaringly heterodox man in prospect and the most rigid orthodox in example I ever saw.'"

An ounce of "do" is worth a pound of "say."—Youth's Companion.

What a Gripe!

We are all familiar with the gentleman who used a famous soap "two years ago, since when I have used no other." The experiences of a lady depositor in the Postoffice Savings bank have some points of resemblance. She was apparently unable to write, but her marriage certificate bore a written signature, so she was asked for an explanation. "In reply I may say that I did sign my marriage certificate, but the sexton of the church held my hand with the pen, and since then I have never used a pen." What a gripe!—London Chronicle.

Peculiarities of Carcans.

"The morning after our arrival at the hotel in Carcans," says W. E. Curtis, "I called for a glass of milk while dressing. On every subsequent morning during our stay a glass of milk was brought to me at precisely the same hour without instructions, and although the servant was told several times that it was not wanted she did not appear to understand and continued to bring it just the same."

"In the hotel were electric bells. The first day I rang for something, and a certain boy answered the summons. The next morning I rang again and again, and no one responded. Finally I went into the dining room and found there half a dozen servants."

"Didn't you hear my bell ring?" I asked.

"Si, senor" (yes, sir), was the reply.

"Then why didn't you answer it?"

"The boy that answers your excellency's bell has gone to market with the manager."

"But you knew he was not here, and you should have come in his place."

"No, senor. It is his occupation to answer your bell. I answer the bell of the gentleman in the next room."

"And as long as I remained in that hotel my bell was answered only by the one particular boy. If he was not in, I could ring for an hour without receiving a response, although the house was full of idle servants."

Edison and Platinium.

A story will serve to throw light upon Edison's character. At one time there was a great fear in the scientific world that the deposits of platinum were about to become extinct. Edison thereupon organized a correspondence bureau and sent letters to every American consul upon the globe, to British consuls in ports where the United States had no representative and to scientific men in every land. The letter gave a clear statement respecting the metal, how and where it was found, and might be found, how it could be identified and treated and much other information.

In each letter were inclosed samples of platinum as found in the various rock beds. This may seem to be a small undertaking, but when it is remembered that the letters were sent off by the thousands, that the postage was 10 cents to each letter and that the pieces of platinum inclosed were almost as valuable as metallic gold, the cost of the achievement is readily seen. While he did not succeed in greatly increasing the output of platinum, he set at rest all fear of its extinction and thus earned the gratitude of every scientific investigator.—Frank Leslie's Magazine.

The Place Was Filled.

At a scene the other day, when the lights had been turned low, the medium was describing a tall, dark eyed, handsome spirit, with long moustaches and his hair parted carefully down the center, that was hovering round a middle aged but elderly looking man, when he burst suddenly into tears. Heart-rending sobs shook his thin frame.

"George, George!" he cried. "Why, oh, why did you leave me to the misery of these past years?"

"Then you knew him?" asked the medium.

"Knew him?" murmured the down-hearted man. "I saw him daily for months and months. Oh, George," he continued, "why did you die?"

"My good man," pleaded the medium, "you must pull yourself together. Though his loss to you must have been a great one, you may yet meet another friend who will fill his place."

"No, no," he cried. "His place is filled."

"Filled! Why, what do you mean?" asked the medium, astonished.

"He was my wife's first husband!"—Pearson's Weekly.

Fully Explained to John.

"John," she said as she toyed with one of his coat buttons, "this is leap year, is it not?"

"Yes, Mamie," he answered as he looked fondly down on her golden head that was pillowed on his manly bosom.

"This is the year when the proposing is done by the young ladies?"

"I hope you don't expect me to propose to you?"

"Why, Mamie, dear, I never gave the matter a thought. I—er—to tell the truth, I've only known you for—that is to say—"

"I'm glad you didn't expect me to propose. I'm not that kind, I hope. No, John, dearest, I couldn't be so impatient. I'm going to let you do the proposing yourself in the old fashioned way. The old fashioned way is good enough for me." And the gentle maiden gave her lover a beaming smile, and the young man rejoiced that he had found such a treasure of modesty.—London Tit-Bits.

Fattening English Quails.

A curious account of how quails are fattened for the market is given in a London paper. It appears that quails, being regular in their habits, always feed directly they wake up in the morning. They are therefore put in a large cellar lit only by electric light. In the dark they go to sleep, but directly the light is turned on they wake up and breakfast. This process is repeated time after time, and the birds, always laboring under the delusion that morning has arrived, once more breakfast, over and over again. They have been known to do so six times in an afternoon.—Philadelphia Record.

FROM the earliest times Switzerland has been famed for the majestic grandeur of its mountain scenery, and Italy for the ravishing beauty of its many picturesque lakes. The very names of the Bernina Hospice, St. Moritz, the Jungfrau, Lake Como, Lake Maggiore, the Lake of Lucerne call up entrancing visions of marvelous valleys, peaks and glaciers, frowning mountain passes, castled shores, and gleaming stretches of glassy water under soft azure skies. To see these enchanting sights even in pictured form is to introduce a broadening influence and a wider outlook into one's life. In a forthcoming issue of The Ladies' Home Journal a vivid idea of the Engadine Valley and of some of the Swiss and Italian lakes will be given in a double-page of the most remarkable views ever secured of the more wonderful and lovelier portions of these world-renowned regions.

CHAPLAIN DRAHMS, formerly of this place, reports the case of the conversion of an Indian convict who has been at San Quentin eighteen years. Since his conversion he has won the confidence not only of the officers of the institution, but of other prisoners also. On a recent visit the Governor had a lengthy interview with him, followed by a pardon, and the Indian was sent to serve as assistant missionary on one of the reservations. As indicating the regard in which he was held by his fellow convicts, a purse of $40 was given him by them on his departure.

An exchange draws the following strong analogy, which receives a daily verification in all parts of this little world of ours: "Did you ever stand by and see a chicken rake over a pile of refuse in search of a crumb or worm, and then another chicken that stood idly by grab and eat the morsel? That illustrates the fellow who sits around town, kicks over improvements and then reaps the benefits by having his property increased in value by reason of improvements made by others.

COLONEL INGERSOLL was a temperate man but not a teetotaler. One day Mrs. James G. Blaine was passing through Fifteenth-street, opposite the Treasury Department, when out from a liquid refreshment saloon came Colonel Ingersoll and a friend. "My dear Colonel," said she, "you would not be seen coming out of such a place, would you?" "My dear Madam," replied he, "would you expect me to stay there all the time?"—American Wine Press.

Mrs. Bell's Big Suit.

The suit of Teresa Bell, special administratrix of the estate of Thomas Bell, against D. O. Mills for $250,000 damages has been transferred from the San Francisco Superior Court to the United States Circuit Court. Thomas Bell had stock in the Bellington Bay & British Columbia Railroad, Black Diamond Coal Company and Bellington Bay Improvement Company. The stock was held as security by the bank of California, and the institution made a demand on the executors of the estate after his death, October 16th, 1892. The claim was allowed. Later the bank advertised the stock for sale and D. O. Mills purchased it for $40,071.95. Mrs. Bell claims the stock was valued at $250,000, and that the bank had no authority to dispose of it, owing to the fact that it was held as a pledge and the court had not approved the sale. Thomas J. Butts of Santa Rosa is Mrs. Bell's counsel. This lady figured as plaintiff in an action against Senator Ashe in the Superior Court some time ago.—Press-Democrat.

THE OBSERVER.

A noted American wag once said, "The higher the society, the higher the kick."

That remains to be seen. People outside of the charmed circle of society are scratching their heads and wondering what kind of a reception that the Bradburys will get now that they have returned from Mexico. The Bradburys were important newspaper topics about four years ago, when Mrs. Bradbury left her "happy home" with a handsome man and scandalized all the "smart set."

For four years they have lived across the border in the seclusion of a mining camp, but now they are back to their old haunts looking for social recognition. Will they get it? This is the question.

Before the little runaway scandal the Bradburys were leaders among the ultra-fashionables of Los Angeles. Mrs. Bradbury was the fairest of the fair, a radiantly beautiful woman, and John Bradbury, though lacking in physical beauty, was nevertheless a beautiful spender and an all-round good fellow.

Then came the scandal and to society the name of Bradbury became an unknown quantity.

They went over to Mexico to bleach out their spotted lives, and now after four years they come back to be redeemed. They bring with them loads of bullion heavy enough to pay any toll society may ask, and letters, too, that tell of the precedent established by Mexican grandees which make them candidates for the best society.

It is risky to gamble on society. It is liable to do anything at any time and it is just as liable to let the Bradburys in as to lock them out. A little scandal in high life sometimes gives a zest and sparkle to the individual concerned and society courts all the more. Society explains to the world that it is but charity—"To err is human, to forgive divine." But behind the scenes there is a sly wink which tells all. Charity is lost in a clinking of glasses and those with a past bear no sign of the redeemed.

If Los Angeles society is high enough the Bradburys will undoubtedly get in. If they don't there is still one possibility for modams—the stage.

Mark Hanna met a bunco man,
Who straightaway took him in;
And Mark lost twenty-five that day.
It was an awful sin.

Now all the press think this is "one"
On Hanna and his sack of "mon,"
But Hanna he don't see the fun.

Do you?

Hot weather is usually a topic of light conversation. The newspapers have a chance to get funny and the cartoonist reaps a rich harvest by picturing the fat man's distress and the ice man's ecstasy. Just at present, however, the topic is a serious one, for the Eastern States are literally baking and scores of deaths are being reported from prostration.

Those who are unfortunate enough to live in the furnace belt are wondering what they have done to deserve such a roasting, and if the alternative of blisters or icicles were offered them they'd undoubtedly jump at the icicles.

If the heat continues much longer there will probably be only a grease spot on the map to tell the tale.

A good story is told on Richard Harding Davis, who is known as the snob of the literary world. Upon arriving in one of the large cities of the Middle West he went to a fashionable hotel and registered as follows:

"Mr. Richard Harding and valet."
A Missouri wit came in a little later and wrote beneath it, "Mr. Andrew Jackson Jones and valet."

High School Trustees.

The High School Trustees meet in regular quarterly session next Saturday afternoon, July 13th. Teachers will be selected, a janitor appointed and other important business transacted. The proposition to employ three teachers, in order to give Principal Weed an opportunity to visit the various district schools to work up interest in our High School, will also come up for discussion.

Grass Fires.

Numerous grass fires were started in this place by fireworks on the Fourth but all were subdued before gaining serious headway. A small blaze was started by sparks from a skyrocket in the cypress hedge alongside the south walk leading to the City Pavilion. The fire was extinguished after six or eight feet of the hedge had been destroyed. This was the most serious blaze of the day, although many private residences had narrow escapes from the numerous incipient grass fires which were not confined to any particular part of the town.

County Money.

The usual monthly count of the public funds in the County Treasury was made Monday morning by Chairman Glynn, Deputy Auditor Goodwin and Assistant District Attorney Weske. Their report shows a balance July 1st of $174,438.75, and a surplus of six cents as follows, to wit:

Balance June 1st, 1901.....$204,810.75
Receipts for June.....4,473.40
Total.....$209,284.15
Disbursements June.....34,845.40
Balance July 1st.....$174,438.75

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, it has a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. Weekly Crop Bulletin.

United States Department of Agriculture. Climate and Crop Bulletin of the Weather Bureau, California Section, Coast and Bay Division, for the week ending Monday, July 1st, 1901.

High temperatures have prevailed most of the week except on the northern coast, and grain and fruit have matured rapidly. Harvest is progressing in all sections, and wheat and barley are yielding large crops, excellent in quality. A heavy crop of good hay is being baled. Fruit picking, drying and canning are in progress. Reports from Santa Clara Valley indicate that prunes, peaches and apricots will yield very light crops. In the vicinity of Niles the apricot crop is very heavy, and there will be a fair crop of peaches. The cherry crop in Alameda county is very light. Small fruits in Humboldt county will be light and of poor quality. Sugar beets are in good condition.

Henry Luigens of San Francisco has been spending the week with his family on the Winkle farm.

The Best Remedy for Stomach and Bowel Troubles.

"I have been in the drug business for twenty years and have sold most all of the proprietary medicines of any note. Among the entire list I have never found anything to equal Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for all stomach and bowel troubles," says O. W. Wakefield, of Columbus, Ga. "This remedy cured two severe cases of cholera morbus in my family and I have recommended and sold hundreds of bottles of it to my customers to their entire satisfaction. It affords a quick and sure cure in a pleasant form." For sale by F. Duhring.

The Trustees of the various district schools in this valley meet to-day in their respective school houses to elect teachers for another term. Few changes will be made as most, if not all the teachers employed during the past year have given satisfaction and Trustees favorable to them were elected last month.

The Fourth passed off very quietly in this place. Many of our people attended the celebration in Napa and not a few joined the people of Petaluma in doing honor to our natal day. Others went to San Francisco and still others enjoyed an outing at Maxwell's Grove. The result was the town reminded one of a quiet Sabbath day.

Your attention is called to the new advertisement of Scott & Crossley. This firm is one of the most reliable in Petaluma. Editor Mitcheltree and His Bride.

The large lecture room of the Methodist Church was brilliantly lighted and handsomely decorated last Tuesday evening. The occasion was a reception given to Mr. and Mrs. Fayette Mitcheltree after their bridal trip through Northern California. The invited guests were received by Mrs. Ada Pauli and Miss Mattie Goodman, who graciously presented each to the newly-married couple. Mrs. Mitcheltree, the bride, is a very beautiful young woman of the brunette type. She was handsomely gowned in a rich gray foulard, the waist being trimmed in white chiffon. After the formal reception of guests the time was spent in social converse and during the evening light refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Mitcheltree will reside in one of the Wagner flats on Napa street. Mr. Mitcheltree, who is the editor of the Expositor, and his charming bride have the best wishes of all who know them and who sincerely wish that they may find much happiness and domestic bliss in the years to come.

The Fourth at the California Springs.

The Fourth at the California Springs Hotel was celebrated in a novel way by the guests of that popular resort. In the afternoon there was a swimming race which was contested by a number of members of the Olympic Club of San Francisco, and in the evening an invitation mask party was given for the pleasure of the guests. The large grounds were gaily illuminated with colored lanterns which were suspended from the many trees surrounding this picturesque hotel, while red white and blue lights lit up the night, making the scene one of rare beauty. Messrs. Cooper & Shedd, the gentlemanly proprietors, did all in their power to make the day one of pleasure to the guests.

Runaway and Smash Up.

While Antone Kiser and Miss Manie Stevens were driving along the county road near Eden Dale farm on their way to the Native Sons ball in this place on the evening of the Fourth, the horse which was a spirited animal, became unmanageable and ran away. The buggy was dived and both the young people were thrown out, but fortunately escaped serious injury. Picking himself up Mr. Kiser escorted the young lady to the ball on foot, a distance of two miles. He then hunted up the runaway horse and what was left of the buggy, which was badly wrecked.

Sad Death.

Mrs. Ellen Steiger (nee Harmon), wife of Andrew C. Steiger, died at her home in San Francisco last Monday. The deceased leaves two little children, a devoted husband, a mother, three brothers and a sister to mourn her untimely demise. Mrs. Steiger, up to a short time before her taking off, was in perfect health and her death came as a great shock to her many friends and relatives. She was born in San Francisco and was only 28 years of age. The funeral took place in San Francisco on Thursday, the remains being interred in Cypress Lawn Cemetery.

FIRE. Narrow Escape of the California Springs Hotel.

The California Springs Hotel at Agua Caliente had a narrow escape from being destroyed by fire last Tuesday morning. A careless Chinese cook threw a quantity of hot ashes alongside the laundry building which is connected with the hotel. Shortly afterward it was discovered that the dry grass along side and underneath the laundry was on fire. The alarm was given and the proprietors, Messrs. Cooper & Shedd, assisted by their employees and the guests succeeded in putting the fire out. It was indeed a narrow escape as the fire had crept underneath the building and set the wooden foundation and flooring on fire, and in order to get at the flames the boarding on the side of the laundry had to be ripped out. Had the fire got five minutes more start nothing could have saved the hotel and the other buildings connected with this popular resort, which is now full of overflowing with guests.

Grand Garden Party.

The ladies of St. Francis Church have perfected all arrangements for a grand garden party to be given Saturday evening, July 20th, at the picturesque grounds of Mrs. Lulu de Emparan. During the evening refreshments will be served and an excellent vocal and instrumental program will be presented. In addition to the prominent part taken by our local performers choice humorous selections and comic songs will be rendered by the Glee Clubs of the League of the Cross Cadets of San Francisco. The Cadets will be holding their annual encampment in Napa at that time. At the request of the ladies of this parish several members of the Glee Clubs, with the permission of their superiors, have kindly consented to come to our town and take part in the entertainment. Their reputation is well known in San Francisco where they have frequently appeared at church entertainments and afforded much amusement to select gatherings. For this reason a large crowd is expected to turn out to the garden party and a rare treat is guaranteed to those who have the good fortune to attend. Admission to the grounds for adults will be 25 cents; children under 12 years, 10 cents.

Lytton Springs Resort.

This celebrated health resort of Sonoma county is now under the management of Mr. Robt. F. Ross, for a long time a popular and well-known conductor on the Southern Pacific Railway. Lytton Springs is an ideal health resort and the sanitarium is fully equipped for patients. Dr. Wm. Henslee is the physician in charge. Attached to the springs is a large hotel, cottages with gas and running water, swimming pool and mineral water. Those in search of rest and recreation take pleasure in recommending these health-giving springs.

The City Trustees.

The City Trustees at their regular monthly meeting held last Wednesday evening adjourned, without transacting any business, until last evening when Clerk Small presented his annual report of the financial condition of the city, which was referred to the Finance Committee. The usual monthly bill-boards were also read and ordered paid.

Photograph Gallery.

Messrs. Walker & Morrison, experienced photographers, have set up a large tent on the lot adjoining the Pinelli building, where they will be pleased to see those who desire pictures taken. These artists make a specialty of stamp photos. See ad in another column.

Will Filed for Record.

The will of Leopold Maionchi was filed for record with Recorder Wright on Friday of last week. The testator bequeaths to Mrs. Caroline Nicolini of Agua Caliente $500, and devises that the residue and remainder of his estate shall go to Florentino Nicolini, for many years employed in Chauvet's wine cellars at Glen Ellen. This is the second will filed for record the past three years.

THE HOME GOLD CURE.

An Ingenious Treatment by Which Drunkards are Being Cured Daily in Spite of Themselves.

No Noxious Doses—No Weakening of the Nerves—A Pleasant and Positive Cure for the Liquor Habit.

It is now generally known and understood that Drunkenness is a disease, and not weakness. A body filled with poison, and nerves completely shattered by per-iodical or constant use of intoxicating liquors, requires an ant-dote capable of neutralizing and eradicating this poison, and destroying the craving for intoxicants. Sufferers may now cure themselves at home without publicity or loss of time from business by this wonderful HOME GOLD CURE which has been perfected after many years of close study and treatment of it. The faithful use according to directions of this wonderful discovery is positively guaranteed to cure the most obstinate case, no matter how hard a drinker. Our record shows thousands of Drunkards who have been cured at home without publicity or loss of time from business by this wonderful HOME GOLD CURE which has been perfected after many years of close study and treatment of it. The faithful use according to directions of this wonderful discovery is positively guaranteed to cure the most obstinate case, no matter how hard a drinker. A Book Hunter's Worry.
The worry of finding that a book is incomplete is often to be expected. Often most respectable looking books have a page missing somewhere. One cannot trust even a folio that has been connected with religious houses all its life. It may be invincibly bound in the strongest calf; it may have passed all its quiet, untroubled days behind glass and be as clean as the day on which it was issued, and yet page 341 may have vanished.

We once knew a man who had a firm belief in the devil and for this reason: He said that he could hardly count the imperfect books by which he had been misled in his time, and in nearly every case these books had a highly respectable past. They had grown mellow in monasteries or had been carefully tended in great libraries, where they were never touched except to be dusted. It seemed morally impossible that harm could have come to these books, and yet each one had a page missing somewhere. Therefore he was reluctantly forced to the conclusion that the devil was in it. He supposed that when the devil was in need of more quotations he abstracted a page from some little read book, choosing it both in order that he might obtain a reputation for wisdom and also that he might not be found out.

We do not uphold this theory, but we do recommend the book hunter, so far as possible, to collate every book of any importance which he may contemplate buying—Macmillan's Magazine.

Doubled the Fee.

A clergyman who used to be a pastor of a church in Kansas City says that on one occasion he had rather an amusing experience in marrying a young couple in that city.

"The gentleman," said the clergyman, "was a handsome, noble looking young man and the bride to be more than usually beautiful. It was plain to be seen that the prospective groom thought he had secured the one prize in all the matrimonial market and was correspondingly elated.

"Just before the ceremony the gentleman handed me the marriage license to see that it was all right. Inside the license there was a crisp $5 note, placed there as the fee. The couple stood up before the few witnesses in the parlor, the ceremony was gone through with, and they were pronounced husband and wife. The first thing the new husband did was to draw his wife to him and imprint a fond kiss on her sweet lips. It seemed to thrill him with unexpected joy, for, immediately turning to me, he said, 'Parson, I'll be switched if I paid you enough for this job,' and, pulling from his pocket another $5 note, he thrust it into my hands."—Baltimore Sun.

Jefferson as an Inventor.

Mr. Jefferson invented the copying press. He writes to Mr. Madison in 1787: "Having a great desire to have a portable copying machine and having studied over some experiments with the principle of large machines made to apply in the smaller one, I planned one in England and had it made. It answers perfectly. I have set a workman to making them, and they are of such demand that he has his hands full. I send you one. You must expect to make many essays before you succeed perfectly. A soft brush, like a shining brush, is more successful than a sponge." He also sent a copying press to the Marquis de Lafayette as a present. He invented the revolving chair, now a familiar and necessary article of furniture in all offices and counting rooms. The Federalist newspapers used to call it "Mr. Jefferson's whirlingig" and declared that he had devised it "so as to look all ways at once."—Chicago Herald.

Wonderful Musical Memory.

Sir John Stainer had a wonderful musical memory. It was put to the test once at the Crystal Palace when he had to play the organ in the "Messiah" and a folio copy, on which alone he could see the score, was not forthcoming. The conductor was in despair. Sir John cut the knot by a wonderful tour de force, playing the part faultlessly right through and entirely from memory, probably the only time the "Messiah" has been so rendered.—London Standard.

Story Told by the Bones.

"He was probably a man of means, with a large family of daughters," the treacherous bystander commented as the skeleton was brought to view after having reposed for ages in the vault.

"Why do you think so?" asked one of the scientific persons present.

"Observe the skeleton," he replied. "See how much longer one of his legs was than the other."—Chicago Tribune.

Can't Call It Home.

Towne—"That's Perkins. Looks like a tramp, doesn't he? Well, he's quite wealthy, I understand."

Brown—"I know him very well. Why, he hasn't a place, really, that he can call a home."

Towne—"Oh, you're mistaken there. Brown—No, I'm not. He's an Englishman, and he invariably calls it 'home.'"—Catholic Standard and Times.

A Danger.

"Do you ever look back on your life and reflect on the opportunities you have missed?" inquired the melancholy man.

"No, sir," answered the bustling. "It would be just my luck to miss some more while I was brooding over what can't be helped."—Washington Star.

He Was One of Them.

Manning—"A year or two ago I advised Fletcher to write a book on the famous men he had met."

Roy—"And did he do it?"
Manning—"He wrote an autobiography."—Boston Transcript.

FOR MALARIA, CHILLS AND FEVER.The Best Prescription Is Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.*The Formula Is Plainly Printed on Every Bottle, So That the People May Know Just What They Are Taking.

Imitators do not advertise their formula knowing that you would not buy their medicine if you knew what it contained. Grove's contains Iron and Quinine put up in correct proportions and is in a Tasteless form. The Iron acts as a tonic while the Quinine drives the malaria out of the system. Any reliable druggist will tell you that Grove's is the Original and that all other so-called "Tasteless" chill tonics are imitations. An analysis of other chill tonics shows that Grove's is superior to all others in every respect. You are not experimenting when you take Grove's—its superiority and excellence having long been established. Grove's is the only Chill Cure sold throughout the entire malarial sections of the United States. No Cure, No Pay. Price, 50c.

A WORTHY SUCCESSOR."Something New Under the Sun."

All Doctors have tried to cure CATARRH by the use of powders, acids, gels, inhalers and drugs in paste form. Their powders dry up the mucous membranes, causing them to crack open and bleed. The powerful acids used in the inhalers have entirely eaten away the same membranes that their cures, while pastes, while pastes and ointments cannot reach the disease. An old and experienced practitioner who has for many years made a close study of the subject of CATARRH, has at last perfected a Treatment which, when faithfully used, not only relieves at once, but permanently cures CATARRH, by removing the cause, stopping the discharges, and curing all inflammation. It is the only remedy known to science that actually reaches the affected parts. This wonderful remedy is known as "SNUFFLES THE GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE" and is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar, each package containing internal and external use sufficient for a full month's treatment and everything necessary to its perfect use.

"SNUFFLES" is the only perfect CATARRH CURE ever made and is now recognized as the only safe and positive cure for that annoying and disgusting disease. It cures all inflammation quickly and permanently and is also wonderfully quick to relieve HAY FEVER or COLIC in the HEAD.

CATARRH when neglected often leads to CONSUMPTION. "SNUFFLES" will save you if you use it at once. It is no ordinary remedy, but a complete treatment which is positively guaranteed to cure CATARRH in any form or stage if used according to directions which accompany each package. Don't delay but send for it at once, and write particulars as to your condition, and you will receive special advice from the discoverer of this wonderful remedy regarding your case without cost to you beyond the regular price of "SNUFFLES" the "GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE."

Sent prepaid to any address in the United States or Canada on the receipt of One Dollar. Address Dept. E 428, EDWIN B. GILLY & COMPANY, 2320 and 2332 Market street, Philadelphia.

The Best Remedy for Stomach and Bowel Troubles.

"I have been in the drug business for twenty years and have sold most all of the proprietary medicines of any note. Among the entire list I have never found anything to equal Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for all stomach and bowel troubles," says O. W. Wakefield, of Columbus, Ga.

"This remedy cured two severe cases of cholera morbus in my family and I have recommended and sold hundreds of bottles of it to my customers to their entire satisfaction. It affords a quick and sure cure in a pleasurable form." For sale by F. Duhring.

At Bed Time

I take a pleasant herb drink, the next morning I feel bright and my complexion is better. My doctor says it is gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys, and is a gentle laxative. It is made from herbs, and is prepared as easily as tea. It is called Lane's Medicine, and is sold at 25c and 50c. Lane's family medicine moves the bowels each day. If you cannot get it free sample, address, Orator F. Woodward, Le Roy, N. Y.

A Good Cough Medicine.

Many thousands have been restored to health and happiness by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. If afflicted with any throat or lung trouble, give it a trial for it is certain to prove beneficial. Coughs that have resisted all other treatment for years, have yielded to this remedy and perfect health has been restored. Cases that seemed hopeless, that the climate of famous health resorts failed to benefit, have been permanently cured by its use. For sale by F. Duhring.

A Minister's Mistake.

A city minister was recently handed a notice to be read from his pulpit. Accompanying it was a clipping from a newspaper bearing upon the matter. The clergyman started to read the extract and found that it began: "Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure." This was hardly what he expected and, after a moment's hesitation, he turned it over, and found on the other side the matter intended for the reading.

His Hair Stood on End.

"Up to five years ago," said a prospector to a St. Louis Republic reporter, "I didn't believe in such a thing as a man's hair standing on end." And then the old gentleman told the story of the fright that led him to change his mind:

"I was in the mountains of Idaho with a friend, and we ran short of fresh meat, so one day I took my gun and started off alone. I went into a ravine and was making my way along a little brook when I came suddenly upon a queer sight. Not four feet in front of me, in the full blaze of the sun, lay four mountain lions asleep.

"For half a minute I thought them dead, but as I stood staring at them, with my heart in my mouth, every one of them sprang up with a growl, and they faced around at me, looking ugly, sniffling the air, with their whiskers drawn back, showing the white line of their teeth, switching their tails and looking like demons.

"As for me, I stood rooted to the spot. I couldn't move from sheer fright. A queer, numb sensation began in my ankles and crept up my body, and I literally felt my hair rise.

"I stood there motionless for several minutes. Then one of the beasts dropped his tail and whined. The others followed his example. My presence mystified them. A few seconds later they turned about and crept away down the ravine, looking back stealthily two or three times to see me.

"When they were out of sight, I began to breathe again. I didn't care to hunt any more that day and made for the camp at top speed. That was the time my hair stood on end, and my scalp was sore to the touch for a week afterward."

A Careful Mother.

This is a story one woman is never tired of telling of a mother whose child had been ill with scarlet fever. She always emphasizes the fact, too, that the mother was possessed, upon ordinary occasions, with good sense and would be called a more than ordinarily intelligent woman.

She was, too, a more than ordinarily careful mother, and it was as an illustration of this that she told the story of the care of her boy to the friend who now repeats it. Not as much was known about sanitary conditions then as now, but it was not in a time of primitive ignorance.

"I always believe in taking the greatest care to prevent contagion in any disease," said the mother, "and with the fever I was extraordinarily careful. Why, when the skin began to peel I rubbed the child down with my hands every day to remove every loose fragment, let it fall into a cloth, and then I gathered it up carefully and shook it out the window."

The listener to that story laughed then and there, to the great surprise and indignation of the mother, and laughs now at the ridiculous ignorance of a woman who claimed to have even a vestige of common sense.—New York Times.

Will-o'-the-Wisp Salvation.

A well known rector of an east end church was approached one day by a lady who said she desired to rent a seat in a row nearest the door of his church. The rector responded that the seats in that row were all free and that she was at liberty to occupy any one of them, but she persisted, saying that she desired to have it for her own.

Being somewhat curious as to her reasons, the clerical gentleman said: "But, madam, tell me why you wish to sit so far back?"

After some hesitancy she responded that she simply couldn't bear to have any one "sit behind her."

"Yet you will be sitting behind others, who perhaps feel the same way," said the rector laughingly.

"That may be," replied the devout lady earnestly, "but you know I have such a wretched little wisp of hair at the back of my head that it would certainly interfere with my devotions if I knew any one was looking at it."—London Tit-Bits.

Business Is Business.

He had obtained a place in a real estate office and was doing everything he could for the interests of his employers. The other evening he was at a social gathering and was asked to sing. He responded with "Home, Sweet Home." His friends were a little surprised at the selection, but he was heartily applauded. Stepping forward, he said: "I am glad you liked the song. There is nothing like 'Home, Sweet Home,' and let me say that the company I represent is selling homes on terms to suit within 12 minutes' ride of the city. Everybody ought to have a home. If we don't want to live there, it's the chance of your life for an investment."—Exchange.

The Tammany Tiger.

The origin of the tiger as an emblem of Tammany is said to date from the time when William M. Tweed, then known as "Big Sixty" Fire company, took a fancy to a picture of a royal Bengal tiger in the fifties. Tweed adopted the emblem for the American club, and it soon was accepted by all Tammany.

When Coronets Are Worn.

The only occasion upon which a British peer or peeress wears a coronet is at the coronation of a sovereign. At the moment when the archbishop of Canterbury places the crown on the head of the new monarch every peer present at the ceremony dons his own coronet.

Enough to Retire On.

"That great Italian tenor told me he had a mattress stuffed full of the laurel wreaths that had been given him."

"A mattress full! Then he ought to retire on them."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Few Pointers.

The recent statistics of the number of deaths show that the large majority die of consumption. This disease, a common one with an apparently harmless cough, which can be cured instantly by Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, which is guaranteed to cure and relieve all cases. Price 25c and 50c. For sale by all druggists.
